TONIGHT

She goes with a record, not a promise.

Elle was crowned at the Sheraton Kampala on 20 September 2025. By then the Fairfield Charity Foundation, which she co-founded in 2019, was already six years old — with its own staff, its own budget, and a list of schools it was paying for every term. The title widened the audience for that work. It did not begin it.

Most of what she will be asked about in Vietnam has already happened. The pages that follow are the record of it.

The School Fees Programme

FAIRFIELD · CONTINUOUS SINCE 2019

Fairfield has paid school fees since 2019 for children whose families could not. More than seventy are on the programme now, across eleven schools, from nursery age to secondary. Keeping the same children funded as they move up matters, because the jump from primary to secondary is where most Ugandan children drop out.

The Kasokoso Project

ELLE CARES · ONGOING

Her main project. Women who have been through violence at home are taught baking, wig making, hairdressing and makeup, and given business training to go with it. The aim is that each of them ends up earning independently, since money of her own is usually what decides whether a woman can leave and stay gone.

WHAT SHE STANDS FOR

Her campaign treats violence against women in the home as a public problem rather than a private one. The case: assaults have causes that sit further back — untreated trauma, drinking, debt, and women with no income of their own and therefore nowhere to go. Waiting for the assault means arriving too late to change any of that.

Back to the Roots

FAIRFIELD · LWENGO DISTRICT

Lwengo is her mother's home district. Fairfield put up a classroom block at Malongu Primary School, and Elle worked on the walls herself before it opened, returning to cut the ribbon and unveil the plaque. Around it sits the rest of the work at the school: help for children at risk of leaving, meetings with families and local leaders, and sanitary pads and toiletries for the girls.

Cleanette Uganda, Hotel Africana.

Cleanette Uganda

MISS UGANDA · NOVEMBER 2025

Uganda's first sanitary pad dispensing machines. A woman or girl can buy a single pad or several, depending on what she has on her that day, rather than having to find the price of a whole packet. The machines need no electricity, so they work in rural schools and health centres as well as in offices and bus parks.

The Cut It Out Campaign

ELLE CARES · NATIONWIDE

Sessions in schools and communities about respect, consent, equality and what a healthy relationship looks like. Where Kasokoso works with women after the fact, this is the attempt to reach people before anything happens.

The Umoja Women's Run

FAIRFIELD · 14 FEBRUARY 2026

Foreign funding for shelters housing women who had left violent homes fell away and some began closing. The run raised money for them from the Ugandan public instead, on the argument that shelters here should not depend on budgets set elsewhere.

Next stop: Vietnam

Elle represents Uganda at the 73rd Miss World Festival in September. She arrives with a charity that is older than her reign, fifteen projects on the record, work in districts from Kampala to Kabale, and partners who can confirm all of it.

“I won’t disappoint when I take to the global stage.”
